DETAILED ACTION

1. According to paper filed on June 29, 2007, the applicants have elected group I with traverse for further prosecution.

Response to Arguments

2. Applicant's arguments filed on June 29, 2007 have been fully considered but they are not persuasive regarding restriction requirement. The examiner does not agree with the applicant's arguments that claims of all three groups are linked to form a "single general inventive concept" and furthermore, there is no burden in searching all the three inventions. First of all, same intermediate compounds are not used in the processes of claims 1 and 2 since the values of variables R and R3 in formulae II and IIa are different. Secondly, the products of claim 1 (classified in class 546) and claim 2 (classified in class 549) are structurally very different and are classified in different classes and therefore, does constitute a burdensome search. The examiner also does not agree with the applicant's arguments that subject matter of claim 5 is novel. Actually, claim 5 is clearly anticipated by compounds 1d, 1e, 1f and 1h (see chart 1 on page 95) disclosed by Sakamoto (J. Org. Chem., cited on applicant's form 1449).

Thus, restriction requirement as indicated is proper and thereby made final.

3. Claims 1-5 are pending in the application. Claims 2-5 are withdrawn from further consideration as being directed to non-elected inventions.

Specification

4. The abstract of the disclosure is objected to because it is too long (more than one page). Correction is required. See MPEP § 608.01(b).

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

5. Claim 1 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Flatt (EP 0 525 538, cited on applicant's form 1449).

Flatt discloses process for the continuous preparation of perylenetetracarboxylic diimides. The process described in claim 1 by Flatt anticipates the instant claim when R represents alkyl or an aryl group in the instant compounds of formula I.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

6. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

7. The factual inquiries set forth in Graham v. John Deere Co., 383 U.S. 1, 148 USPQ 459 (1966), that are applied for establishing a background for determining obviousness under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) are summarized as follows:

1. Determining the scope and contents of the prior art.
2. Ascertaining the differences between the prior art and the claims at issue.
3. Resolving the level of ordinary skill in the pertinent art.
4. Considering objective evidence present in the application indicating obviousness or nonobviousness.

8. Claim 1 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Sakamoto (J. Org. Chem., cited on applicant's form 1449).

Art Unit: 1625

Sakamoto discloses preparation of compounds 2b-2k by dimerizing compounds 1b-1k in the presence of organic solvent and an alkali metal base (see chart 1 on page 95).

Sakamoto meets all the limitations of instant claim except it does not mention forming leuco form and does not mention reoxidizing this leuco form using polar solvent.

However, the starting material and the final product is similar to the instant claim.

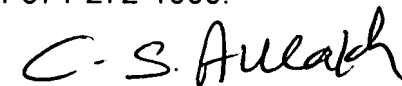

Therefore, it would have been obvious to one skilled in the art to prepare the instant compounds unless applicant's provide unexpected result of superior yield of the instant process as compared to the process of Sakamoto.
